LANE HOUSE
Nixonton, Pasquotank County, North Carolina

Date of erection: 1745

Present condition: Fair

Description:

One story and low attic. Each long front has center door with window on either side. At one end is a large brick chimney originally projecting from the building, now covered by an addition. The foundation is of ballast stone and brick laid in English bond.

In plan there is one large room at the chimney end and two small equal rooms at the opposite end. The large room is paneled to the ceiling on all sides, but the paneling is now in bad condition. The arrangement of the panels is unusual, there being a low broad panel below with a tall corresponding panel above. Just under the ceiling line is a very narrow horizontal panel. The fireplace has been rebuilt but retains the many-paneled overmantel.
